

University of Nebraska - Lincoln

DigitalCommons@University of Nebraska - Lincoln

Fourth Annual National Conference (1999)

People of Color in Predominantly White Institutions

October 1999

What Have "WE" Done For "US" Lately?

Steve Birdine

Indiana University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.unl.edu/pocpwi4>

Part of the Race, Ethnicity and Post-Colonial Studies Commons

Birdine, Steve, "What Have "WE" Done For "US" Lately?" (1999). Fourth Annual National Conference (1999). 20.

<https://digitalcommons.unl.edu/pocpwi4/20>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the People of Color in Predominantly White Institutions at DigitalCommons@University of Nebraska - Lincoln. It has been accepted for inclusion in Fourth Annual National Conference (1999) by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@University of Nebraska - Lincoln.

What Have "WE" Done For "US" Lately?

Steve Birdine

Indiana University

“This powerful, insightful, humorous and thought-provoking workshop takes a much needed ‘open and honest’ look at issues impacting African Americans.”

This powerful, insightful, humorous and thought-provoking workshop takes a much needed "open and honest" look at issues impacting African-Americans. The workshop will address motivation, unity, race pride, "sell outs," quest for academic excellence, male-female relationships and much, much more!

This is an interactive session with plenty of audience involvement. Each participant will leave with a personal action plan that can be used for motivating, educating and stimulating those you work with and/ or work for (starting with self!).

Traditional thinking will be challenged:

1. What role do we play in our oppression?
2. When did "discipline" become a taboo topic in our households?
3. Are you part of the solution or part of the problem?
4. When do African-American/Hispanics learn to value the very diversity within our own race that we expect others to value?
5. We give students "titles." When do we teach them how to lead?
6. We talk about "at risk" students. When do we address the people and institutions that keep them at risk?
7. What role does motivation play?
8. How do we nurture a collective quest for academic excellence?
9. How do we get faculty/staff of color to "stand up?"
10. How do we move from just "talking" about these issues to "doing something" about them?

This session is a must for all individuals seeking a proactive approach to dealing with these long-standing issues that impact our communities. Come prepared to move from "Affirmation to . . . Action!"

PRESENTER:

Steve Birdine earned a B.A. degree in News-Editorial Journalism and a M.S. degree in Radio-Television Journalism from the University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign. He is currently the coordinator of Diversity Programs at Indiana University, Bloomington. He is the former program director of Marcus Garvey Cultural Center at the University of Northern Colorado, and the former assistant director of the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign Black Cultural Center. He has presented at many local, state, and national conferences, and has won numerous awards for his work.